

Corey Hogan

representing the Government of Alberta

Corey Hogan is Managing Director of Communications and Public Engagement for the Government of Alberta.

Prior to joining the Government in 2016, he served in a number of senior communications roles including Chief Strategy Officer for Northweather and National Director of Engagement Strategies for global PR firm Hill and Knowlton Strategies.

In his life before government he was an award-winning pundit and proud Calgarian, having grown up in the city and still maintaining a home there. Corey currently lives in Edmonton with his wife Lori and three children.